About us: Saguaro Juniper is a conservation-oriented ranch that raises grass fed beef in the San Pedro River Valley of southeastern Arizona. Cows and calves graze on upland range during the winter and on irrigated pasture during the summer growing season. Our customers buy quarters or halves of live animals that are processed locally. The land and cattle are owned by a community of friends who are guided by respect for the land and animals and make decisions by consensus.

About our area: Saguaro Juniper is part of the community of Cascabel. This unique and welcoming rural area is home to several groups doing good work on the land. The Sweetwater Center celebrates our connections to the land and its inhabitants. The Cascabel Conservation Association works to protect this ecologically rich area, provides a community garden, holds educational workshops, and hosts visitors on solitary retreats. Sleeping Frog is a Consumer Supported Agriculture farm that produces seasonal heirloom fruits and vegetables and shares their knowledge with apprentices and volunteers. Area residents gather at the Cascabel Community Center to socialize, learn, and make our valley an even better place to live. Cascabel is a good and beautiful place to practice conservation-oriented ranching.
